

A tradition of excellence, since 1957

Duroply Industries Limited are an esteemed plywood business in India and have built a solid reputation for being a premium ply and veneer manufacturer. Duroply offers a diverse range of plywood, blockboards, doors and veneers, and the engineering for each is optimised in terms of quality and craftsmanship. Made with premium wood and cutting-edge technology, their collections are of the finest design standards, made to be durable and long-lasting.

Established in 1957, Duroply has consistently delivered top-grade products to diverse residential, commercial and institutional clients in India. With over 20 offices across the country and 65+ years of experience, they are known for their focus on innovation and customer satisfaction. Despite changing market standards and evolving design aspirations, they have cemented their position as a premium brand in India with superior quality and durability of products.

Duroply started as a small company making plywood and tea chests at the turn of the 1960s. Over the next 6 decades, they not only enhanced the durability of woodwork in India, but brought an innovative interior design element in the Indian market. Additionally, they are also one of the earliest pioneers of decorative veneers in India. As of today, the upward trajectory of the firm continues with being the only plywood company having a 10' range of plywood, boards, and doors in India. With several innovations in design and production over the course of years, the company has set an exceptional benchmark for quality of plywood and veneers.

Duroply is a proud forest-friendly company, and commitment towards the environment is a part of their core values. They source raw materials from sustainable forests and have implemented various initiatives to reduce their carbon footprint. All Duro products are made from sustainably-sourced timber and conform to E1 emission levels. They also have FSC certification, which certifies sustainability along the three key aspects of ecology, economy and socio-cultural well-being.

With over 400+ team members and 750+ product iterations over a span of 65+ years, Duroply's pioneering journey has set new standards for plywood production in India.

With experience to deal with massive orders and complex challenges they have a solid reputation for reliability and professionalism. As a premium and trusted plywood business, with a legacy spanning over a generation, Duroply is committed to upholding the highest standards in everything they do. From sourcing the finest raw materials to utilizing the most advanced manufacturing techniques, they strive for excellence along every step of the way.
